

Why Did Lil Kim Lighten Her Skin?

The Queen B suddenly seems unrecognizable after her changing her nose, chin, cheeks, and bleaching her skin 4 shades lighter. We don't think Lil Kim has good people around her because no one seemed to talk her out of these horrible ideas. Yes, we understand that celebrities get a lot of pressure to look their best, but this is taking it to another level. Did You Know... Most celebrities who use skin lighteners to bleach their skin do it gradually and it normally is unnoticeable to the public. It almost seems like Lil Kim wants to become a white woman. Sort of reminds us of Michael Jackson's extreme makeover (although he still claims he had vitiligo). Which ever Surgeon Lil Kim went to, he probably performed on Michael Jackson too. Is Lil Kim Still Using Skin Bleaching Creams? We believe Lil Kim is still currently using skin bleaching products in high concentrations to bleach her entire body. Every new photo we see of her she looks a little lighter than she did before.

How light does Lil Kim want to be? Well, that's really up to her, but we think she should stop while she is ahead. If she goes any lighter, she may have to hire someone to carry an umbrella around to protect her from the sun. Want Skin Lightening Results Like Lil Kim? Now if you are looking to lighten your skin 3-5 shades lighter, just remember that people who know you will notice this change and will question it. Society still has a negative perception of people who lighten their skin (much more than people who tan) so make sure you know how to handle remarks like that. Women Inquire, Inc. is researching to find out what product Lil Kim is using to lighten her skin, so stay tuned!